Dear Shanti,

As per our discussion yesterday, I clarified to you about the liability in case you leave without serving your notice period. You have told me that you are not looking at a batch transfer either.

Request you to consider all points of discussion and then take a call.

Regards

Neena Vora

These documents are about my medical condition and these diseases aren't curable. Now I am not feeling good because of the weather and food conditions here in Pune and I got diagnosed in October.

All the documents are of October, hence what is the emergency?

Dear Shanti,

You have not mentioned what it is that you suffer from. Please note that you are in training and as per your offer letter and agreement there is a liability applicable. This apart there is a further liability if you do not serve the 3 months' notice period.

Kindly consider all aspects and revert. Call me for any clarifications.

Regards

Dear Ms. Neena Vora,

I am Nakka Ramya Sri Shanti undergoing training program in Pune, Business Intelligence (BI) batch. Please accept my resignation from my position of Analyst, effective December 20, 2018. I was so pleased to begin my work here earlier last month at Capgemini Technology Services India Limited, Pune on November 14, 2018. However, a health emergency has come up and it requires immediate medical attention and I, unfortunately need to relocate immediately. As a result, I will be unable to fulfill my commitments here indefinitely.

Thank you so much for your patience and understanding during a personally tumultuous time. Please let me know if there is anything I can do to ease the transition in any way, as I want to make this as painless as possible for you.

My apologies for not being able to stay on the job. I do appreciate the opportunities provided to me and I hope to stay in touch in the future.

Please accept the assurances of my most distinguished sentiments.

Sincerely,

Nakka Ramya Sri Shanti
